Eloy Vera Again Breaks Campaign Finance Law, Digs Deeper Ethics Hole

Vera fails to file 30-day report disclosing campaign donations and expenses

AUSTIN, TX – Already under investigation by the Texas Ethics Commission for a slew of campaign finance and political advertising violations, Starr County Judge Eloy Vera added another one to the list when he recently failed to file the 30-day pre-election campaign finance report mandated by state law.

“It appears nothing is certain but death, taxes, and Eloy Vera breaking campaign finance laws,” said Wayne Hamilton, founder of #ProjectRedTX. “What kind of shady deals is Vera refusing to disclose? He just keeps on ignoring financial transparency laws and digging himself a deeper and deeper ethics hole.”

Vera already faces a formal ethics probe for his failure to file earlier campaign finance reports, failure to properly disclose campaign donations on late-filed reports, and making campaign expenditures without having a campaign treasurer on file for proper oversight.

In accordance with state law, the Texas Ethics Commission will continue to investigate all of the allegations over which it has accepted jurisdiction. For more information or to follow the progress of the complaint, visit projectredtx.com.
